HAMPTON ROADS ACADEMY
Newport News, Virginia

There . . . apparently . . . lies the horizon, a limit to our vision, and a boundary to our thought and growth. Then, gaining insights from both successes and failures, our world expands. We see a new horizon, then another,
. . . endlessly. We would never have glimpsed them, had we not reached the first.

A man . . . of ideas, sparkling intellect, varied talents . . .

A man . . . doctor, administrator, archeologist, friend . . .

A man . . . who buoyed Hampton Roads Academy by his constant and unselfish care and concern . . .

A man . . . whose knowledge of people and the community he served was invaluable . . .

A man . . . who placed his absolute faith in the ideal of Hampton Roads Academy . . .

To this man . . . we the students of Hampton Roads Academy dedicate the 1966 LOG:

DR. EDWARD VALENTINE SIEGEL, III

HEADMASTER'S MESSAGE

By the time you read this, much of your inevitable concern with specific academic and extracurricular responsibilities here will have evaporated into lofty and hopefully pleasant anticipation of the new and different experiences awaiting you as graduates. Thus, the theme of this yearbook--horizons--is a fitting symbol of what we hope will be your new concerns. In spite of our preoccupation with homework, examinations, and various other hurdles, we hope that you have all gained much more than mere academic preparation for the year immediately ahead. We hope that you have been given some vision of the various horizons you will search, whether they be academic, cultural, economic, or social. It is important to us and to you that you are able to do more than follow specific directions and to parrot back memorized information. Unless you are able to organize and direct your own efforts--and because you want to, not because you are forced by parent or teacher--our efforts will have been to large measure wasted.

As a class you have distinguished yourselves by your willingness to look beyond yourself and your own affairs. It may be that you have contributed more than any other graduating class to date to the morals and overall vitality of your school. We are all grateful for your many endeavors to help younger students feel at home here in addition to the contributions you have made to extracurricular activities in athletics, music, and student government. While comparisons between different classes are always odious, we feel that you have epitomized a spirit of unselfish service that will bring you credit and serve others as an inspiration.

We hope that you will continue to reach for new horizons--in your own way and your own time. The world today, which at times seems to place impossible demands upon us, requires a commitment to society. The significant contribution of one person cannot be standardized, because it is clearly a function of many personal attributes, but what is important is that the purpose of one's life be partly dedicated to making some contribution. No matter how troubled the world may be, there are always goals for the horizon-seeker. As Sophocles declares in ANTIGONE "Wonders are many, and none is more more wonderful than man."

Class Prophecys

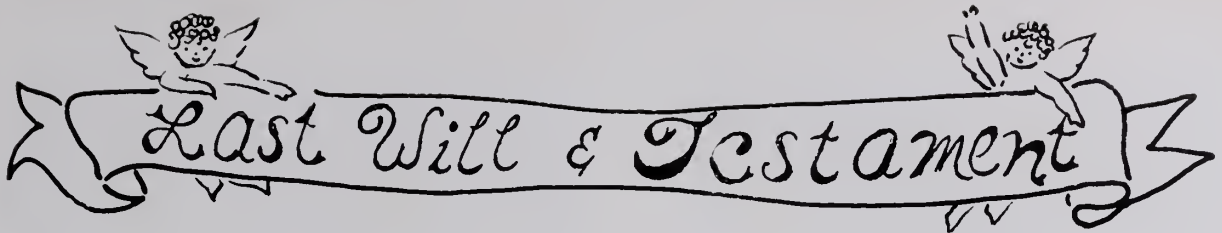

It is 1975. This is LEE WILLIAMS from Station WHRA in Gloucester, Va. We now take you to Cape Kennedy where we are about to witness an event of national importance: the launching of the first woman astronette to the moon, Miss KIM MITCHELL. We see that she is ready to blast off, sprawled in her lounge chair designed by H. LEROSS BROWNE, one who knows.

The crowd is gathering to see this scientific achievement accomplished by the renowned astro-physicist, RON SMEDER. Among the crowd we recognize our own MARY LOU AMES and JUDY MOORMAN, co-governors of Gloucester, the newly-admitted fifty-first state, made possible through the efforts of the President of the United States, WOODLAND WARD ANDERSON, III. Miss Ames and Miss Moorman are only two of the guests of honor at today's launching. Standing by the rocket trying to break up a feud between CLAUDIA JORDAN and DAVID BLOUNT, this year's "Perfect Couple U.S.A." is GEORGE OR-PHANIDYS, who is directing and overseeing this spectacular moon program.

There seem to be some commotion on the other side of the field. DAVID BOWDITCH is marching in protest flaunting a sign: "Use your natural ability: Let's walk!" Screeching up beside him is MARGA BUNCH in her 1975 Ford Cobra, lined with solid gold yellow slips. Another demonstration is going on nearby, led by GEORGE WISE, grand astro-dragon of his newly formed clan, a society formed for the prevention of polluted popsicles on the moon. Adding to the general confusion is the arrival of billionaire ROSS MIRMELSTEIN, who has just purchased the Los Angeles Ball Club. With Ross is Sandy Koufax, Jr. and Miss SUSAN DOWNING, the first woman vice-president. Coming up behind them is DAVID DUNCAN, Ross's choice for manager of his ball club. Not far from this crowd is a reserved section for more of our world-renowned guests. Here is Miss GERTRUDE BALTES, authoress of the best-seller, 101 WAYS TO CHEAT AT FIELD HOCKEY. Seated next to her we see the world's greatest theologian of our time, STANLEY GLASOFER. He has just created a new world religion in which he is the only man and the rest of the congregation is comprised of his feminine followers. On his right are Miss PAMELA BROWN, who has revolutionized the teaching of the first grade with her astrovision show, "Romper Boom," and Miss DIANA HOLT, president of HRA Hockey Stick, Inc. We here at WHRA are a little concerned about a small quarrel that has been instigated amid the protests formerly mentioned. VICTOR HERNANDEZ, the writer-director of the latest movie-thriller, 007 1/2, and his good-guy star spy CALDWELL (Bond) CHALLONER, are humiliated because they were not invited to sit in the reserved section.

But wait! Put all feuds aside! This is the moment we have been waiting for! PETER WILLETS, the world's most solemn philosopher, is about to speak. He points his finger high, past the launching pad, and we see the football which was passed out of the stadium last week by all-star back MAURICE McDOUGAL. But we again lower our eyes to the ceremony as MICHAEL JONES strikes up his jazz-combo and President Anderson jets up to the podium. Just as he is about to deliver his speech, we hear a great guffaw from the far end of the Cape. Who should appear but JAMES RATLIFF, who has been stricken with double pneumonia for the sixteenth time. He is considered a scientific wonder in the medical journals and is never without his private physician, DR. LAURA SIEGEL, who is at this moment trying to quiet the patient. However, before the speech is resumed, there seems to be something down on the beach which has attracted the crowd's attention. I think it is that famous pair of beach-combers, DEBORAH MOUNTJOY and WILLIAM WOODSON, in the midst of an astro-argument. But, things seem to be calming down now and I see that Debbie has gone in for a swim. What is that emerging beside her? Why, it's "Moby KATE" TOWNSEND, and just in time for the launching! 5 - 4 - 3 - 2 - 1 - 0!

This is WHRA, signing off with good tidings for you and good luck for all those who follow.

Last Will & Testament

We, the Class of 1966, being of . . . mind and body, do hereby bequeath the following . . .

- MARY LOU AMES: I leave Route 17 to Ricky Royals.
WARD ANDERSON: I leave my boring T.A.P.'s to the next U.S. History class.
GERRY BALTES: I leave my gym suit and my Indian-toe hockey stick to Elizabeth.
DAVID BLOUNT: I leave my ability to get through football season with a clear mind to Dopey.
DAVID BOWDITCH: I leave my shoes to their greatest admirer, Mr. Hogg.
PAM BROWN: I leave memories of the "Unholy Three" to Col. Farnsworth.
LEE BROWNE: I leave, this time for the last time.
MARGA BUNCH: I leave my apricots to Mrs. Hatcher.
CALDWELL CHALLONER: I leave late practice to Mr. Hogg.
SUSAN DOWNING: I leave my agility and gracefulness to Miriam Corson.
DAVID DUNCAN: I leave a bottle of tranquilizers to Mr. Hogg in case he ever runs into another manager like me.
STAN GLASOFER: I leave my unhumorous jokes to Lucy Baltes, my muddy tracks to Mr. Timmins, deadlines to Clara, and my signature to the ages.
VICTOR HERNANDEZ: I leave all my crewcuts to Trip Ferguson.
DIANA HOLT: I, Gabby, leave my rowdiness to Mr. Armstrong's English class.
MIKE JONES: I leave my lunch table and the eight grade girls to the next brave senior.
CLAUDIA JORDAN: I leave all my weekends in Bryan Park to Sue Maida.
MAURICE McDUGAL: I leave a book about elementary dating to Debbie in case she does not graduate.
ROSS MIRMELESTEIN: I leave the 24¢ I won from Mr. Hogg from the World Series to the athletic department and the support I gave to Sandy Koufax to Mr. Hogg.
KIM MITCHELL: I leave the P.B.C. to Allen, and a cold ride home to Bobby.
DEBBIE MOUNTJOY: I leave my hi-fi voice to Mr. Hogg and a lunch to Mr. Armstrong.
GEORGE ORPHANIDYS: I leave my MARRIAGE OF FIGARO posters to Col. Farnsworth, my musical ability to Lucy Chapman, and the problems that go along with it to Jean Rice.
JIMMY RATLIFF: I leave my quiet, reserved manner to that loud Allen Tanner.
LAURA SIEGEL: I leave an eyelash to anyone who needs a wish.
RON SMEDER: I leave my Batmobile and Batchute to Dr. Clarke.
KATE TOWNSEND: I leave a secret to Anne, a late rainy night to Gina, and a set of new maps to Natural Leader.
PETE WILLETTS: I leave the Yorktown battlefield, a cold December night, and a damaged Honda to any adventurous junior.
LEE WILLIAMS: I leave a skateboard and a helmet to Bill Poole, and my trusty Renault to Thora, so she'll really enjoy car pool next year.
GEORGE WISE: I leave all my mathematical ability to my sisters, and a pair of slightly used "granny" soccer shoes to Eric Sundin.
BILL WOODSON: I leave Russian salad dressing in Col. Farnsworth's French dressing bottle.

This year the football team completed its first winning season since entering varsity competition in 1963. Their success was greatly helped by the efforts of coaches Hogg and Worthington, and J. V. coach Armstrong, who gave the team moral support.

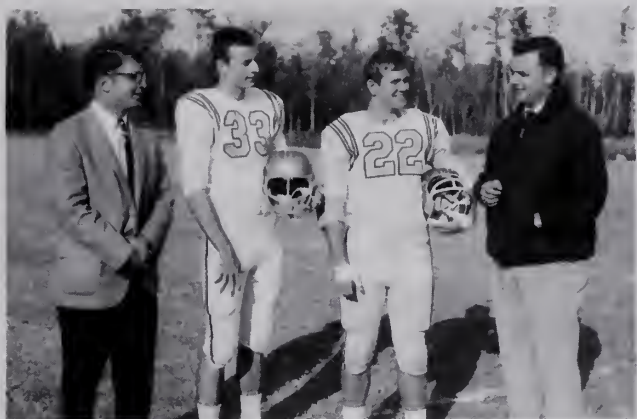

Led by co-captains Maurice McDougal and Bill Woodson, the team achieved a 4-3-1 season. There was spirited support on the bench as well as on the playing field. Although the victories were the result of team effort, there were some individual outstanding players. Maurice McDougal, top-scoring full-back, and David Blount, tackle, were chosen for honors in the Tidewater Conference of Independent Schools.

Although the team loses ten seniors, there are promising starters returning, and a second winning season is expected next year.

SENIORS

TOP ROW: Blount, Bowditch, Browne, Challoner, McDougal. BOTTOM ROW: Ratliff, Smeder, Willetts, Williams, Woodson.

Clarke Worthington, III, coach; Woodson and McDougal, co-captains; W. Herman Hogg, coach.

McDougal runs 83 yards for a touchdown in the opening play of the first game of the season.

Williams gets around a tackler as Armfield and Browne follow up.

Williams picks up yardage with Sundin blocking.

Legg intercepts from Blue Ridge.

First year coach Clarke Worthington added a new dimension to the HRA sports log by developing a record-setting soccer team which won the first varsity soccer match in the school's history by defeating Christchurch 2-1. They then went on to establish their first winning season with a 6-4 record. Co-captains Maurice McDougal and Bill Woodson ably led the team against some of the most formidable competition in the state and succeeded in defeating the William and Mary Indians 2-0.

Coach Caddy Meekins, on the right, with Miss Caroline Haussermann, girls' athletics director at William and Mary, and director of Merestead Hockey and Lacrosse Camp, which several team members attended last summer.

The hockey team had another successful season, triumphing over 8 tough opponents and losing only once by a 1-0 score to Virginia Beach High School. The Academy is able to boast victories over Ferguson High School, Warwick, Denbeigh, Newport News, and the junior varsity team of William and Mary College. Five Academy players were elected to the Hampton Roads Hockey Association. C. Jordan, N. Donaldson and K. Mitchell were positioned on the first team; G. Mitchell and L. Siegel on the second.

remember when....

Your family of dolls was the most important thing in your life? This, too, was a part of your education . . . of your preparation for the real life responsibilities of today and tomorrow. Your training today is the foundation of your opportunities of the future . . . grasp it and use it wisely that you may achieve the very fullest rewards that life has to offer.
